

Mustang band gets the shaft

by KATHLEEN BEASLEY
Editor

The Mustang football team will be heading for Sacramento and the Camellia Bowl Dec. 9, but it looks like they will be going without the Mustang Marching Band.

Apparently when the Mustangs agreed to play the bowl game no one noticed the small print at the bottom of the invitation that said, "Please Leave Band at Home." The band has been trying to wrangle its own invitation since before Thanksgiving without much success, according to Tim Partch, chairman of the Music Board of Control.

"In other bowls the band from the team's school performs at halftime," Partch said. "We assumed this would be the case with the Camellia Bowl. However it is not that way.

"They've had trouble in the past with invited teams not having bands that could perform. Consequently they have come up with this idea to have competition and pick the best high school band—and the high school band performs at halftime."

Halftime is 20 minutes long. The Camellia Bowl Association has planned a queen pageant and a performance by a mass of high school bands in addition to the featured prize-winning band, according to Partch.

"They (the association) will not go to these people to ask them to give us time to perform. They already have approached the high school prize-winning band and the mass of 30 high school bands for time for the queen pageant. They don't want to go back and ask for more time," Partch said.

"They've hinted that they don't really care whether we perform or not," he added. "We're not the only ones getting the shaft. In past years they've said no to other college bands."

Besides talking to the bowl association, the band has appealed to the NCAA to increase the length of halftime and talked to ABC (who will be broadcasting the game) about using their influence.

Pres. Robert Kennedy, Vice Pres. Harold Wilson and state trustee Roy T. Brophy have gone to bat for the band. Both high school band directors have indicated their willingness to give the Mustang Marchers some of their time. But, Partch said, so far nothing has worked.

He said that the 120-member band may go to the game anyway and sit in the stands to support the team. They may try to partly finance the trip with an evening performance in Sacramento.

But unless something new develops soon, the band will not be part of the halftime at the bowl.

FOREIGN STUDENTS

Pay now demands state

Foreign students attending California universities and colleges may be facing financial hardships soon.

A letter from the Chancellor's Office stated, "the balance of registration fees for the fall quarter must be paid by December 1, 1972. This fee is based on $25 per unit. Students who do not pay this balance will be dropped from all classes. The only exception to this will be that the students carry only 8 units for this quarter, and drop the rest of the units."

"The balance of all payments from last year (1971-72) must be paid by December 31, 1972, on the basis of $1100 per year. Outstanding loans for the 1971-72 year must be paid by December 1, 1972. Students who do not pay the outstanding loan will not be allowed to register for Winter, 1973 quarter."

Robin Baggett, ASI Pres. said, "It is almost an injustice to require a foreign student to come up with such a large amount of money in such a short period of time. The greatest individual burden that a foreign student has is that of distance. Home is many thousand miles away." Baggett added that at the last CSUCP

Student Presidents Association meeting a resolution was adopted and presented to the Trustees of the California State Universities and Colleges Trustees, who accepted the proposal.

The resolution stated, "That the Trustees of the California State Universities and Colleges make a formal request to the California State legislature to delay the collection of excess tuition from the foreign students for the current academic term and to authorize its collection through an installment plan."

Joe Hay and Jim Jenson are now trying to introduce legislation which will modify the Education Code to give the foreign students a Financial break. According to Baggett, no news has been received on the progress of such a bill.

Student Judiciary hearing to study day care issue

During a full hearing scheduled for January, Student Judiciary will take a closer look at how Student Affairs Council handled an initiative to put the day care question up for student body vote last spring.

After more than an hour of deliberation behind closed doors the judiciary decided to call a full hearing to consider, "(1) whether the initiative was legally or illegally taken and (2) certain unclear events regarding the actual reception of the day care initiative by SAC."

They also voted to meet on January 4 to set the hearing date prior to January 15.

The "Petition for Complaint" resubmitted by Greg Williams asking for an injunction to freeze funds for the day care center was the major item of contention. The judiciary voted not to issue the injunction requested in the complaint.

Williams said he had been buying time with the injunction while a second petition to bring the day care question before the student body for a vote is being circulated. He said he couldn't be sure how many names were on the petition at this point because there are 20 copies of the petition going around.

Much of the discussion centered around whether or not Williams had submitted the petition for an election properly last spring. Even though there were members from the spring SAC on both sides, the question of proper submission was never definitely decided.

Cecilia Dundon, secretary of the day care center board of directors, Nancy Jorgensen, representative from the counseling center to the board and Ray DeGroote spoke for the defense.

Greg Williams and Steve Depper, SAC members, spoke as plaintiffs.

Williams maintained that the SAC "Approved the (day care) code and it was later interpreted as endorsement of the day care center."

DeGroote argued that it was, "Beyond comprehension that SAC members didn't know that in approving the day care center code that they were approving the concept of an at least partially subsidized day care center."

The other point of the petition that received attention was whether or not alternatives to the proposed center were adequately explored and presented to SAC. Mrs. Dundon said, "We investigated every possibility and came up with nothing."

Williams said that he had talked to Dr. Robert Christenson, head of the Child Development Department and had found a less costly alternative. Mrs. Dundon said they had received the cooperation of the Child Development Department and had worked with them, but they were not able to offer anything more than advice due to lack of funds and an overworked staff.

President Nixon confers at the White House with Nguyen Phu Duc, South Vietnam President Thieu's special emissary, to assure him that the U.S. could end its involvement in the Vietnam war without selling out its South Vietnam ally. Duc, Thieu's chief foreign policy adviser, brought Nixon a personal letter from Thieu.

GSU case still waiting for judge's final answer

No decision has been reached in the controversial Gay Students Union case now being tried in San Luis Obispo County Superior Court.

The case began last spring when students on this campus organized and asked for university recognition of a Gay Students Union. The organization was approved by Student Affairs Council, but rejected by the administration.

ASI lawyer Richard Carseel filed suit on behalf of the ASI, asking for recognition of the GSU and reimbursement of ASI funds used for lawyer fees in the case. The trial began Sept. 28, with State Deputy Attorney General, Edward Belasco, acting as counsel for Dr. Robert Kennedy, Everett Chandler, and the Trustees of the California State University and Colleges, named as respondents in the suit.

Deadline for submission of briefs to be used in the case was set for Nov. 20. Superior Court Judge Richard Harris is now reviewing the briefs, and is allowed up to 90 days to review the briefs and reach a decision.

Free bus ride to downtown

Tropicana Village will provide a free bus ride to the downtown area Thursday evening for all interested students.

According to ASI Vice Pres. Denny Johnson, the bus will depart from in front of the Men's Gym at 7:45 p.m. and will return from downtown at 9:20 p.m. He added that this will be a good opportunity for students without transportation to get downtown for Christmas shopping or any other business.

Labor secretary

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI)—President Nixon Wednesday named Peter J. Brennan, union leader of New York's "hard hat" construction workers, to be new labor secretary in another step in his second term Cabinet face-lifting.

ID reminder

The Registrar would like to remind all students that University I.D. cards will be validated during the 1973 winter quarter registration period. Any student who does not have a plastic I.D. card, or who needs a replacement card, should contact Mrs. Pankey in Admin. 219 before December 1, 1972.

The art of hitch-hiking offers more than a ride

Editor:

Re. John Darsey, letters Nov. 20:

With an attitude that every car passing should pick you up, you won't ever master the art of hitch-hiking. It is an art, with a smile and a personal act of getting your thumb out, you can pull that ride to get you to school.

Cal Poly at first disillusioned me because the majority of people here are just too busy to stop long enough to help another out. I look at people who pass me by as not wanting me in their car and that's fine, because I don't want to be there if I'm not welcome.

Even if you're stuck in one place for a while, eventually there will be a car coming around who will stop. One can learn a lot more relevant information with a magical thumb than you'll ever learn in this institution.

Fan praises rooters

Editor:

For those who didn't see the Pomona game, well you missed alot. First of all, one would think it was a Mustang home game, as our side of the field had the stands "packed" with rooters, with people standing along the fence at the end of the bleachers. The Pomona side, which had about the same number of seats, had about one sixth of them empty.

Nearly three fourths of our marching band came to the game on their own, and again their performance was exceptional. I hope they can all go to the Camellia Bowl, in uniform this time, sent there by our student body.

The rooter section was really with it during the first three quarters of the game. Both the rooters and the cheerleaders barely rested between yells, as our team rolled to a 21-0 lead by the end of the third quarter. Until the fourth quarter, our team looked as if they were a good match for USC. The defense was more than outstanding, and the offense looked like the offense Poly had when the season started. Both the offense and defense looked like real pros until the fourth quarter. Then our team looked as if they would have trouble playing San Luis Obispo High School.

But don't let that fool you. During the fourth quarter nearly all the second string was playing on both our offensive as well as defensive team. By the middle of the fourth quarter, three of the four spotting coaches had left their boxes and gone over to our team benches. Without the aid of the spotters the second string performed very well. Both the coaching staff and the team seem to feel it was all but over. Then the lightning struck. Pomona, now using the shotgun pass of offense, attacked with five receivers going out, scored six points. They went for and got two more. Before the shock had worn off, Pomona made a repeat performance. Had time not run out, we could have lost the game. I sure hope this doesn't happen next weekend (Dec. 9 at 1 p.m.) in Sacramento, at the Camellia Bowl.

North Dakota has a darn good team, sixth in the ratings, but our team is better, especially when they put their minds to it. The game will be well worth watching, and all of us that can, should make a special effort to attend this post season game. Poly should win it, and they will, if the team performs as a team, especially the team they were at the start of the season. The team needs our loyal support, so let's all go to Sacramento to cheer them to victory.

Rodeo team seeks win

Workshops in still photography and film-making for college students will be held in Mexico during the Christmas holidays under the sponsorship of the Camera Arts School of Carmel.

The still photography session will be held at Bahia Kino on the Gulf of California about 250 miles south of the border from Dec. 18 through 22. Instruction will be offered in all aspects of black and white and color photography with special emphasis on scenic, nature and underwater photography. The group will camp on the beach with ample opportunity to enjoy the sun and water.

Enrollment is open to any college student 18 or older. Fee for the five-day program including meals is $65.

A workshop in film-making for aspiring writers, photographers, actors and actresses will be held in Puerto Vallarta from Dec. 27 to 31. Instruction will be given in scenario writing, filming, editing, narration and acting. Students will make use of the latest video equipment to permit instant playback of scenes.

Fee for this five-day session is $125 and includes hotel, meals and materials. The instructors for both workshops are working professional photographers and will be assisted by advanced photo and film students.

In addition to some of the most exciting and beautiful scenery on the Mexican coast, participants will be able to enjoy a wide variety of recreational activities. Enrollment for both sessions ends Dec. 11. For further information and application write to Camera Arts, P.O. Box 6355, Carmel, California 93921.

The Mustang Men's rodeo team will seek to widen its lead in the western region, National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association, when it makes its second appearance of the season at Mesa, Arizona, on Saturday and Sunday, December 2 and 3. Competition of this event is sponsored by Mesa Community College of Mesa, Arizona.

Bill Gibford, coach of the team and a member of this university's Animal Science Department, will enter the same Mustang team that won the men's division at Tucson on November 12.

The men's team will include Tom Ferguson, captain, Lee Rosser, Dave Clark, Rich Partain, Cliff Happy and Guy Barth. Ferguson is in his fourth year of competition for this university. He is a roping specialist who earned the national title in calf roping and ribbon roping two years ago.

Fall quarter competition for the Mustang team will end at Florence, Arizona, on Friday and Saturday, December 8 and 9.

Running though many many minds at this time of problem of the Christmas Gift.....and, I daresay, some of you are mulling over this problem even during these trying days of first quarter finals!

Here's a tip for the guys taken from the Jewelry Industry Ad Agency: "The one gift that says all you feel about her is a gift of Diamond Jewelry. It'll probably be the most meaningful gift she's had since the ring you gave, her when your love had just begun!

Because Diamond jewelry means more to most women than any other gift, since Diamonds are the gift of love! So surprise her with the last thing she'd expect, the first thing she'd wish for."

And, for the gals, here's a little tip from our own experience here at Brazil's jewelry for men doesn't have to be fantastically

OPENING WIN

Hello Hayward! 87-84

by MIKE SMITH

The Mustang basketball team is now 100 per cent on the road after winning its first game against Cal State Hayward, but did it only by the skin of their teeth, taking the game in the last seconds, 87-84.

This was a far cry from last year's meeting of these two teams, as the Mustangs ran over the Pioneers in that game, 93-77.

From a percentage standpoint, the Pioneers hit with more consistency as they compiled a 56.9 per cent mark from the field in shooting, compared to the Mustangs' 54.5 per cent. But percentages don't make up scores.

At the end of the first half, the Mustangs had jumped out to a comfortable 45-36 lead, with a big help by newcomer Rick Reed. Reed had already poured in 20 points for the evening. Pinky Williams was also in double figures with 19.

The second half is where the Mustangs almost lost their composure, as the Pioneers started getting through the Mustang defense, scoring points right under the basket and compiling 15 lay-ups during the game.

The fourth quarter was tough and go for both teams but the Mustangs kept those few important points ahead of the Pioneers right up to the end.

Coach Ernie Wheeler was pleased with his team and commented, "our defense was good at times and then again it was penetrated. We shot the ball very well and our percentage was good at 54 per cent. With Bob Jennings on and off the bench in foul trouble we were hurt, but our guards played an outstanding game and I think this is what did it for us."

Reed ended the game as high-point for the Mustangs with 25. Lamar Anderson also had a good game, scoring 13 points along with Williams' 19. The rebounding of Joe Linnemann was a major factor in the victory.

Frosh pick up early win

Great inside moves and 25 points by freshman Chris Simmons sparked the freshman basketball team to their first game victory over Taft Junior College, 84-65.

The Colts were also helped out in the scoring department by center Dave Erickson, who had 20 points and Dave Bush, who dropped in 18. Greg "Bomber" Jones really showed some poise with his 20-foot shots from the outside.

Coach Steve Humann was pleased with the team and said, "The fact that the first game was away didn't bother us, we were ready to play and ready to win."
